

India celebrates teachers' day every year for students across the country on 5th September. The day is celebrated to mark the birth anniversary of India's first Vice President Dr. Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan (1888-1975) who was one of the most recognized and influential Indian thinkers in academic, philosophical, and statesman circles in the 20th century. Throughout his life and extensive writing career, Radhakrishnan sought to define, defend, and promulgate his religion, a religion he variously identified as Hinduism, Vedanta, and the religion of the Spirit. He sought to demonstrate that his Hinduism was both philosophically coherent and ethically viable. He was also the second President of India – a position he held from 1962 to 1967. A symbol of academics and education, Radhakrishnan was a renowned philosopher, statesman as well as a teacher. Dr. Radhakrishnan is remembered for being one of the greatest thinkers of the 20th century as well as for introducing western philosophies into the Indian society. Dr Radhakrishnan said that, "teachers should be the best minds in the country." Teacher's day is celebrated because it was the second President's idea to do so. His students wished to celebrate his birthday but he wanted them to dedicate the day to all the teachers of the country.
